

The short term impact of European exploration & settlement on the Americas was profound, as new goods were exchanged between Old & New world changed economic possibilities & trade options while the introduction of new diseases decimated native populations in the New World.